Glenn retired as a Saltmarsh, Cleaveland & Gund shareholder on December 31, 2024. He currently serves as an executive consultant. Glenn leverages technology and modern accounting processes to help his clients improve data quality and access meaningful analytics to improve financial performance. He and his accounting team are equipped to assist clients with managing their back-office accounting needs, including full outsourcing, automating internal accounting and CFO services. Glenn also leads a national CAAS roundtable group representing accounting firms across the U.S. through our affiliation with the BDO Alliance USA. Before joining Saltmarsh in 2003, Glenn worked for several large, international firms upon graduating from the University of Florida. He has extensive experience in accounting, process engineering, tax management and is viewed as a trusted resource for many family-owned businesses, individuals, and industries, including manufacturing, technology, real estate, telecommunications, e-commerce and healthcare.
